About Me

Yuni Sara (b. 2003) is a multidisciplinary artist, researcher and educator whose practice explores themes of identity, tradition, and societal expectations through wearable art, performance, and visual storytelling. Her work is deeply rooted in feminism, body art, and cultural beliefs, often incorporating aesthetics to create immersive and thought-provoking experiences. With experience in project coordination, she brings strong adaptability and problem-solving skills to both creative and professional settings. Passionate about collaboration and innovation, she continuously seeks opportunities to expand her artistic practice and challenge perspectives in art and research.
