

Aleisha Binte Abdul Rahim

I am a hands-on, experimental artist with a practice that explores the relationship between everyday objects, memory, and identity. I work across mixed media, textiles, and graphic elements, translating personal narratives into visual form through formats such as painting, printmaking, bookmaking, and object-based installations. Adaptable and collaborative, I am comfortable both leading projects and supporting others, and I value open exchange of ideas. My goal is to continue refining my practice while contributing thoughtfully to my own development and to the creative teams I am part of.
