

SARAH LIM XU XI

I am a graduating Interior Design student whose work explores the relationship between material, perception, and narrative. Influenced by my upbringing between the Middle East and my Chinese heritage, I approach design as a form of spatial storytelling rooted in ideas of inversion, transformation, and transition.

My multidisciplinary practice, which includes photography, poetry, and digital art, informs my sensitivity to light, transparency, and atmosphere, shaping spaces that are fluid, interpretive, and open to change.

WORK EXPERIENCE

INTERIOR DESIGN INTERN

COTERIE DESIGN, SINGAPORE

MAY-OCTOBER 2025

Assisted in the development of design concepts, spatial planning, and presentations. Produced physical models to communicate complex design details, including custom carpentry for on-site execution. Coordinated with contractors and carpenters to resolve construction and detailing challenges. Contributed to team workflow by mentoring newer interns. Maintained a hands-on approach to project work, supporting both design and on-site implementation processes.
