Profile

Since childhood, I was raised in an environment surrounded by art, thanks to my parents who both majored in the arts. I began visiting exhibitions from a young age, which naturally sparked my interest in the world of art. Ever since, I've spent much of my time exploring art-related books and videos, and throughout high school, I attended art academies to build a strong foundation.

After becoming an adult, I decided to pursue higher artistic insight by enrolling in an overseas university. Studying abroad for two years has brought many challenges, but with a resilient mindset and the encouragement of my professors, I've never given up.

The part of design I am most confident in is model-making. It's a process I truly enjoy, which allows me to create detailed, high-quality results.

Thank you for taking the time to read my introduction.
