About Me

Rosalind is currently in the final stages of completing her Music Therapy training at the University of the Arts Singapore (LASALLE). She brings experience in both educational and clinical settings, having taught individuals across the lifespan while undertaking clinical placements with populations including persons living with oncology palliative, dementia, stroke survivors and children in the early intervention programmes. Through these experiences, she has developed strong rapport-building and communication skills tailored to diverse needs and contexts. Rosalind is dedicated to supporting vulnerable communities through music therapy, and believes in the potential of music to foster engagement, enhance well-being and support cognitive functioning.
